TREACHEROUS WEATHER.

Early spring weather is very treacherous indeed and it is not out of place to recommend the exercise of a little caution on the part of a large number of our citizens who are a bit anxious to "rush the season," and get summer here a while before it is nature's time. While some days the sun may be shining brightly and warmly during the middle of the day and the afternoon making one feel that winter clothing is uncomfortable and absurd, there is a big change in the atmosphere towards night. Thoughtless persons should be very careful about their attire on this account. A sudden change of weather is more susceptible of catching cold. A day or two ago the writer noticed a number of men walking about the streets, attending to their shopping and other dutiful duties attired in very light and insufficient for their protection against this treacherous weather. A change in time saves doctor bills and the Telegram does not desire to back against the doctor's business. It takes this opportunity of reminding the aid of humanity. We will have a sufficient quantity of sickness to keep the doctors busy this spring summer any way so there is no need of turning the city into a hospital.

CLEAR THE CORNERS.

It is considerable complaint in the conditions of the corners of Clarksburg. Persons congregated there and pedestrians find it necessary to take the middle of the road. The conduct and language of those congregated are not proper. It even extends to the degree of vulgarity and insolence, and only a night or two ago a fellow with a small rifle hastily drew the same on a passerby, mistaking him for another, and would doubtless have shot him. If a woman had not interfered by jerking his arm down and telling him that was not the fellow he wanted. These conditions are respectfully presented to the police department and the mayor by the Telegram with the urgent suggestion that they be remedied immediately for the benefit of the citizens of Clarksburg and to promote the public welfare as well as the safety of the citizens. It is urged that the habit of congregating there and at all other public points be broken up—not next week or next month but now.

The Republicans will act wisely in the second congressional district by getting together on a candidate before antagonism and a row are brought about. But, even if it should come to that, there is more truth than poetry in what the Morgantown Chronicle, a paper in that district, says, as follows: "The Republicans of the second district are not kickers. They are not backward about trying to get office in an honorable way; but when they do not succeed, they get right into the harness and pull again for the whole party." The history of the second district proves the Chronicle right. They fought Dayton but on the show down they fell into line and rolled up the usual big majority. That is exactly what they will do in reference to Dayton's successor.

The prosecuting attorney has already made a fine record and is deserving of the great amount of praise that is being given him. His manner is able and earnest. He knows his cases and goes into court prepared. Success has already crowned him and promises to continue to do so. All praise to him and may the future be as bright for him as the recent past has been successful. Already there is a growing sentiment that no mistake was made when the people elected him by such an overwhelming majority.

Judge Lynch is winning laurels on the bench. He starts out with the idea that the business of the court should be dispatched and has passed orders that are conducive in that respect. He is dignified and courteous. He manifests a strong disposition to be impartial, fair and just. His knowledge of the law is not questioned, and the bar and litigants have great confidence in his ability and the fact that he will do his duty. The Telegram congratulates the people on the wisdom of their choice.

A boom has already started for Senator-elect Warner of Missouri for Vice-president. Some suggest him for president, but Missouri ought to be satisfied with the other, and after having done so well at the late election, she is looked upon with favor. Certainly, there would be no objection to giving that section of the country such encouragement as that. Missouri has shown us and now let us show her.

The Republican party in convention assembled decided that Mayor Shields was deserving of a second term and the people generally are of the same opinion. The Telegram takes its hat off to him now in the very opening of the campaign and confidently predicts an even greater majority than he received in times past, when he was before the people as a candidate.

The advertising columns of the Telegram constitute a great big index of what a revival of business in Clarksburg has this early in the season seized the city. Compare this sign with other cities in this part of the state and you will find that Clarksburg is far in the lead.

Captain Hugh Callahan has found favor with the people time and again and there is no logical reason why there should be an experiment. Experience and knowledge are worth much.

Every man on the Republican ticket for council is worthy of the votes of all citizens in his respective ward and it is not exaggerating to assert that the great majority of the votes will be given them.

Chief of Police John Howe is an officer of experience and will not be new at the business next year as his opponent would be, if elected, of which latter there is not the slightest possibility.

The Fairmont Times thinks it would be no use to run a Democratic ticket in France and it might well add that there will not soon again be any use of it in this country.
